Mr. Mora informed members, to avoid delay and possible errors, new procedures would be implemented for processing taxicab renewals. Mr. Mora explained the renewal process, citing the taxicab annual renewal period spans from February thru March of each calendar year. And stated, this was an enormous amount of workload in a short span, solely processed by PTRD's Licensing staff. Therefore, to eliminate the heavy workload demands and probable errors due to staff fatigue as well as, to eliminate the enormous wait time for owners. The department has decided to review this process to develop new processing procedures for the handling of these renewals.

Adjournment

In an email to the Consumer Services Department the passenger writes:

I recently took a taxi in Miami and received a very nice man that took me to my destination. After dropping me off I was at a restaurant with friends, when it came time to pay I realized that I did not have my wallet with me and automatically knew that I had dropped it in the taxi.

Me being the very vigilant person that I am I remembered the taxi number and automatically got in contact with him. For that moment in time I knew that my wallet was gone and the money which was about $960. I remember as soon as he dropped me off he called my cell phone by mistake and did not realize it, but I did not pay any attention to it and just hung up and that is how I had his number to contact him.

I automatically called the taxi driver and asked, begged and pleaded to go look in his car and look for my wallet. He went in and checked and stayed with me on the phone until he found it. I was so happy to know that my money wasn't gone. I am a student in Miami so that money was all I had to survive. He very kindly drove back to my destination and brought me my wallet back with every single dollar in there.

The reason I am writing this letter is to show gratitude to this man. He is a very nice man and above all you can tell that he has a clean heart. I know that if it were any other taxi driver, I'm not necessarily saying that all taxi drivers are bad but I was very lucky to have found such a good and honest man to bring my belongings with nothing missing, because if it were any other incident I know for a fact all my money would have been gone.

This man deserves an award or some kind of thankful gesture for doing what he does. I know that being a taxi driver you are not paid much, and for the fact that he brought me back my wallet knowing there was a lot of money inside shows me that this is an honest and God fearing man. I told my family and all my friends about this incident and everyone was shocked and surprised to what an amazing man he truly is. The cab number is xxxx and his license number is xxxxx.

Thank you very much.

Dear Sir,

I was in Florida recently and I am writing to sing the praises of our driver from (taxi company) named (nominee). I was staying at the Marriott and he drove me to purchase a car. The nominee was so nice and honest and helpful that I had to write a letter. It made me think well of Miami and its people. Thank you (nominee) and you are lucky to have him.

In an email to the Consumer Services Department, the passenger writes:

Steven,

Yes, I was fortunate enough to ride with a driver named (the nominee). I was returning to Miami from a cruise on Jan. 2. We were late for a flight to Pittsburgh and (the nominee) got us quickly to the airport.

Upon leaving the cab I dropped my wallet in the front seat and did not realize it until we were about to board the flight. Just then I heard my name paged in the airport and called (the nominee). He had found the wallet and had been waiting for 30 minutes in a place which is difficult for drivers to wait.

I could not miss the flight to meet him and he agreed to send the wallet by overnight mail. It arrived just as he said it would. As you may know, losing your wallet can be a painful experience. (The nominee) went above and beyond the call of duty to spare me the aggravation of replacing the contents of a lost wallet. I have good memories of Miami because of a considerate driver named (the nominee).

In an e-mail to the Consumer Services Department, the passenger writes:

Hi Steven,

Thank you again for calling me back. I would love to tell you about the great experience I had with a taxi driver last week in Miami.

Last Saturday, January 22nd, my friend and I hailed a cab from the downtown area and took it to Coconut Grove. When we got to her house I paid the driver and accidentally left my wallet on the backseat. Because we had hailed the cab we had no idea which company it was. We called all the companies to see if they could send out a message but had no luck in doing so.

On Monday, the 23rd, I received a call from the taxi cab driver (the nominee). He left me a message asking if I had left anything in a cab over the weekend. When I spoke with him he did NOT tell me what was left in the cab and instead asked ME to describe it. He also told me that he had picked up various people after my friend and I and had called many of them (he, of course, did not have my phone number in the system because we had hailed him on the street).

He was truly a pleasure to speak with. He told me he had found my wallet under the seat of the car and its contents were scattered everywhere. I have a feeling one of his other passengers saw it, took the cash and threw it under the seat. He found my driver's license and then found a business card with my phone number on it and was able to track me down.

I told him that I'd send someone to get it from him (I live in Colorado and was already back here at this point) and he said that he would be happy to mail it, since I was a paying customer. Not only did he go out of his way to find me and make sure I was the rightful owner, but he went even more above and beyond by offering to mail it himself (which will obviously cost him money). I cannot tell you how appreciative I am and how truly happy I was to receive this call.

You have an excellent person working for you and he certainly, without a doubt, deserves recognition. It's people like him that remind me that there are still good people in the world today!

Thank you for your attention and please feel free to contact me with any questions.

I was a passenger in a cab on Friday, January 28th at approx. 11 p.m. (The nominee) picked me up at Lincoln Road and Pennsylvania Avenue. He had just found a cell phone that a passenger had left in his cab. He was determined to figure out whose phone it was and how to get the phone back to the customer. The phone showed a number to call if the phone was found. After calling the number and speaking to the owner's wife (John Mayer from Tennessee), the driver drove all the way down to 101 Ocean Drive to take the phone back to Mr. Meyer. I really hope there is a way that we can get this information back to the cab company. This driver should be recognized from his service above and beyond. Thanks.

In an e-mail to the Consumer Services Department, the passenger writes:

Good evening Steven,

as per our telephone conversation earlier today I would like to share with you our gratitude to one of the Taxi Drivers, under the (taxi company). Unfortunately we do not have the Taxi #, however his name is (the nominee).

On Friday 11th Feb, My Husband (ALY) landed at MIA, he got in the taxi at approx. 6 p.m. and made the journey home to Pembroke Pines. When they arrived Aly paid the driver and then exited the car to retrieve his luggage. Approximately one hour later we realized Aly no longer had his phone in his possession, however we did know he had had it in the taxi as he had spoken to me to let me know how long it would be before he got home.

After the realization had set in that this was more than likely the last time we would see the phone, we went through what to do next - inform work of the lost company property. Call the provider to cancel the service.

Before doing any of this Aly was relentlessly calling his own number in the hope someone would answer, as I called (the taxi company) again unfortunately the lady I spoke to was not very helpful and told me if I wanted I could call back in 15 mins, but the driver had picked someone else up and claimed he didn't have the phone in his car?

We knew this not to be true later, as we didn't know the taxi number so neither did she and that she hadn't attempted to contact the driver.

In the meantime I continued to call the phone and unbelievably (the nominee) picked up, as soon as he answered he said he had found the phone in his cab, at this point my Husband took over the conversation. (The nominee) quite plainly told us we had nothing to worry about he had the phone and would return it to us, we then made arrangements to meet (the nominee) at taxi 1. We jumped in the car and as soon as we arrived at Taxi 1 (the nominee) recognized Aly and straight away returned the phone to us as well as restoring our faith in humanity.

Again unfortunately in this day and age we know we have been extremely lucky, and as easy as it could have been for (the nominee) to deny any knowledge -he was honest and truthful. We are both so grateful to (the nominee) and would like in some way for him to be recognized for being a good man and yes an outstanding citizen.
THANK YOU!

If you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact us,
Best regards,

Sarah & Aly Meneguzzi

In an e-mail to the Consumer Services Department, the passenger writes:

Dear Sir,

As we spoke on the phone, I would like to let your institution know the great service received by (the nominee). Last Friday afternoon, my family and I took the taxi from the Miami Airport to Aventura after a 20 hours trip and forgot a backpack with very valuables electronic gadgets with a value of $500+. Once (the nominee) realized that the backpack belonged to us, (the nominee) brought it to our house, with no charge and nothing missing in the backpack.

I do realize that (the nominee) has high values and a very high concept of honesty which I think should be recognize and that is why I took my time to make the call and write this email. This rare quality should be presented to everybody who does a public service as an example.

In a letter to the taxi company and forwarded to the Consumer Services Department, the passenger writes:

Dear General Manager:

I would like to draw your attention to the extraordinary service that one of your cab drivers provided us two weeks ago.

We flew to Miami on February 26th and took a cab from the airport to the Marriott Biscayne Bay Hotel. I realized after the cab driver left the hotel that I had forgotten to take my briefcase with me. The briefcase contained my passport and my husband's passport. Imagine our distress. We were booked on a cruise the next day and our passports were required for us to board the ship.

The desk clerk at the Marriott made a few calls but we did not remember the name of the taxi company that picked us up. Fortunately, my husband remembered the name of the taxi driver. Although we were not successful that evening in locating the cab, my husband called the taxi lot dispatcher at the airport on Sunday morning and the dispatcher radioed out to all drivers the driver's name and the fact that we had left a briefcase in the cab. Someone recognized the driver and called the driver. The driver's name is (the nominee) and the cab number is (xxxx).

The nominee called us on our cell phone and, although Sunday was the driver's day off and the driver lived in Broward County, the driver drove all the way to the cruise ship terminal to return my briefcase and our passports. Thanks to the nominee we were able to take our cruise.

I cannot tell you how grateful we are for the nominee and to the company for employing such an exceptional person. If your company has an employee recognition program I would like to nominate this driver for an award.
